→ Create BlackBerry Groups so that you can message multiple contacts at once (often called a 'broadcast')

→ Invite and accept friends via BlackBerry Tag by simply tapping your device against another BlackBerry smartphone

→ Share your location and plan your schedule with your contacts

1 FIND OUT about the various features that are available on a BlackBerry – BlackBerry Messenger (BBM) is particularly popular with young people, for example

2 MAKE THE MOST OF BlackBerry Parental Controls to restrict your child's access to certain features on the device, such as BBM and location services, if you'd rather they didn't use them. Simply follow our step-by-step guide to setting BlackBerry Parental Controls on page 54

3 IF your child uses BBM, encourage them to carefully consider who they give their BBM PIN to. While it might be tempting to publish it on their Facebook profile or ask a friend to broadcast it to all their BBM contacts, do they really want so many people to be able to contact them or pass their PIN on even further?

4 SUGGEST that your son or daughter sets a password on their BlackBerry device (to protect them from things like BRAPEing) and downloads the BlackBerry Protect app so that if they lose their device (or if one of their friends gets hold of it), they can log in to the BlackBerry Protect website and lock their device to prevent anyone else from being able to use it

5 EXPLAIN to them why they should 'think before they post' – for example, if they choose to include their photo or name on their BBM profile, it's important that it's appropriate and if they make a comment or share an image, it could be forwarded on to other people or saved and shared using a 'screen muncher' app, which might cause them embarrassment or upset. (Screen munching is very popular among young BBM users as it lets them take a shot of whatever is on their phone's screen and then share it with other people)

6 DISCUSS how messages can be broadcast to large groups of people very quickly. Would they really want the whole school seeing a message or photo they've shared? Could it embarrass or upset them (or someone else)?

7 MAKE SURE your child understands that although BlackBerry Messenger offers free messaging, it does use internet data, which means they might be charged if they go over their contract allowance for such data. Each BBM message uses a small amount of data but, if they're a heavy user, it can add up

8 SHOW them how to make the most of built-in controls to do things like:

- Block someone in BBM (go to the contact list screen and highlight the contact, click Menu then Delete Contact)
- Store BBM chat history (go to the contact list screen, click Menu, Options then Save Message History)
- Leave a Group (go to the contact list screen then BBM Groups, click Menu, then Leave Group and choose Leave Group or Delete Group)

9 CONSIDER potential additional costs on 'Pay as you go' BlackBerry devices. If your child has a 'Pay as you go' BlackBerry (rather than a monthly contract) and they want to use BlackBerry Messenger, they'll need to opt in to the BlackBerry Internet Service. If they're a Vodafone customer, for example, this costs £5 and lasts for 30 days. It can be set up by calling Vodafone for free on 40035

10 REASSURE them that they can come to you if anything happens on BBM that upsets or worries them

11 FIND further advice about how to encourage your child to use smartphones in a safe and responsible manner on the UK Safer Internet Centre website – www.saferinternet.org.uk/downloads/resources/ParentTechBriefing/Parent_tech_briefing_Blackberry.pdf
